

Overview of a tax reform in Russia

Dear colleagues,

The taxation system in Russia is currently undergoing its most significant reform since the early 2000s. On 16 October 2024, SEAMLESS Legal invites you to join a webinar where Maria Kabanova, Counsel and international tax expert, will provide an overview of important tax changes and explain what businesses should prepare for.

During the webinar, our tax expert will review the most important topics, in particular:

- changes in the differentiated personal income tax scale and other significant changes in the field of personal taxation;
- increase in the general corporate income tax and withholding taxation;
- changes for IT companies and companies investing in the high-tech sector;
- changes in the simplified taxation system: key implications for relevant taxpayers and their counterparties;
- changing the rules of taxation of high-value property;
- tax "fine-tuning": what else to look out for.

In addition, we will also discuss the topical issues materially influencing the tax landscape for Russian participants of international groups:

Bonus section 1 - Topical issues of Transfer Pricing compliance: recent developments and current trends.

Bonus section 2 - Currency control regulations: current issues and new risks.

Join us to learn about new challenges to be faced by businesses in Russia in light of the above novelty and available solutions.

Recently, SEAMLESS Legal tax experts have prepared an "Overview of the key tax features" adopted in the summer of 2024. Most of the abovementioned legislative changes will come into effect on 1 January 2025. The new tax measures indicate a clear trend towards an increasing tax burden across various categories of taxpayers and suggest changes in the administration of new tax liabilities.
