

Nadorshin Evgeny

In 1995-1999 he graduated from the Higher School of Economics (NRU-HSE) with a bachelor's degree.

In 1997-1998, he twice completed an internship at the Faculty of Macroeconomics at the University of Paris-I (Sorbonne).

In 1999-2001 he studied at the graduate school of the Higher School of Economics. In 2001-2003, he was a postgraduate student at the Higher School of Economics.

In 2002, he completed an internship (Rotterdam, the Netherlands), received a master's degree in economics from the Erasmus University.

Professional experience:

In 2002-2003, he was a consultant to the economic expert group (EEG) under the Government of the Russian Federation.

In 2003-2004, he was an expert in the Department of the Monetary and Banking Sector at the Open Economy Institute.

From 2003 to the present – NRU-HSE, senior lecturer (macroeconomics, statistics, time series analysis, quantitative methods in finance, Russian economy, and financial markets).

In 2004-2010, he was Chief Economist at the National Bank Trust.

In 2009-2013, he was Advisor to the Minister of Economic Development of the Russian Federation.

In 2010-2011, he was the head of the analytical division of Jones Lang LaSalle (Russia).

Prior to joining PF Capital, he held the position of Managing Director and Chief Macroeconomic Analyst at AFK Sistema for three years and was also Advisor to the Chairman of the Board and Chief Economist of MTS Bank in Moscow.

Now Chief Economist at PF Capital.