

Sinan Koseoglu was appointed as General Manager at Moscow Marriott Grand Hotel

Moscow, November 2014

Sinan Koseoglu has a rich professional experience. He started his career in food and beverage department in 1989 at Ankara Hilton Hotel. He got his bachelor degree in hotel Management at Hacettepe University in Ankara in 1991, followed by MBA in Hotel Management at Cornell University (USA) in 2012. Mr. Koseoglu worked as Director of F&B and Executive Assistant Manager for 4-5 star Robinson, Radisson and Mercure, Novotel, Sofitel hotels, part of the Accor Group, with which he had worked for 12 years in different countries in Asia, North Africa and Middle East. Between 2009 and 2010, he worked in Russia, based in Yekaterinburg, as an Executive Assistant Manager for newly opened Novotel at the heart of the city.

In 2014 Mr. Koseoglu moved to Moscow from Sofitel Dubai Jumeirah Beach hotel, a luxury five-star hotel with 438 bedrooms, 5 restaurants and lounges where he worked as Executive Management and Regional Food and Beverage relay force representative. In February 2014 he started as Director of Operations in Marriott Grand hotel, then in June was appointed as General Manager in another property managed by Interstate Hotels & Resorts – Holiday Inn Moscow Sushevskiy.

In his new capacity Sinan Koseoglu headed up the team of Moscow Marriott Grand. “My main tasks are to improve hotel financial performance considerably as well as to keep the service on the highest level to exceed clients’ expectations, – says Sinan commenting on his appointment. – And I also plan to pay special attention to introduction of new technologies and services.”

Sinan likes cooking, spending time with friends, fashion, extreme sports as wind surfing and traveling to new destinations. Apart from his native Turkish, he is fluent in many languages, including English, German and Russian.
